

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Hunter College, New York, and A. Coleman, University of Chicago, Business Managers; Professors Deihl, of Wisconsin University High School, Nitze, of the University of Chicago, and Vos, of Indiana University, Associate Editors. Other associate editors and the consulting editors are to be named. The first number will appear as soon as practicable, probably in the coming autumn.

CO-OPERATION IN ENGLISH PRACTICE

The Kansas State Agricultural College has adopted the following regulations:

All instructors in the Division of Agriculture are hereby requested to forward to the Dean of this Division all examination or other written papers which are handed in by students in the Division of Agriculture and which show marked deficiency in spelling, punctuation, or sentence-structure. These papers will be sent to the head of the English Department.

The writers of these papers shall appear in person at the Office of the Head of the English Department at a designated hour, arranged jointly by the Dean of this Division and the Head of the English Department, for such conference and instruction as may be necessary to remedy the above-mentioned deficiency.

The English Department shall be requested to make recommendations to the Dean of this Division regarding students who continue to be especially deficient in these subjects, even to the extent of withdrawing credits in English.

Notice of this action of the Faculty of the Division of Agriculture shall be given to each class by the instructor.

A CORRECTION

In the English Journal for October, 1915, there appeared a review of Simpler English Grammar, by Dean Patterson Wardlaw. This is one of the Bulletins of the University of South Carolina, not of North Carolina, as was stated in the review.